Moving into Residential Aged Care

Information for Patients and Carers

This booklet outlines the steps involved in moving from hospital to a residential aged care facility (RACF). You have been given this booklet to help you to understand this process.

Your social worker is available to talk with you and your family/carer about your needs and options available.

If you do not have any family or carers to help you, the ward Social Worker can help you find a suitable facility.

Moving into a Residential Aged Care Facility

Assessing Your Needs

- You are referred to ACAT (Aged Care Assessment Team). ACAT will conduct an assessment in hospital to determine eligibility to access aged care services, including residential respite and permanent care.
- The report from the assessment is stored on an online portal accessible to aged care service providers and facilities. An Aged Care Identification Number and Referral Code is generated and required to view your assessment. These will be provided to you by the Residential Aged Care Social Worker or Ward Social Worker.
- Facilities may ask you for your Aged Care ID and Referral codes when you are discussing your interest with them.

Choosing a Residential Aged Care Facility

- The Residential Aged Care Social Worker will provide your family/carer with a list of available facilities. Your family/carer will be asked to contact and visit available facilities.
- Once you and your family/carer have been provided with the Referral Codes, the expectation is that you will locate and transfer to an appropriate aged care facility within 2 days of being ready to leave hospital.
- Vacancies may not be readily available in your preferred facility. You may need to consider accepting another facility and then transferring to your preferred facility at a later date.
- Please note that if you are still in hospital and no longer require acute care, you may be financially re-classified as a 'nursing home type patient'. This means you may be charged a daily fee set by the NSW

Ministry of Health. You will receive a letter advising you of this change if it occurs.

Moving from Hospital to a Residential Aged Care Facility

- Once you have accepted a vacancy, it is usual for patients to transfer from hospital to the residential aged care facility within a short period. Hospital staff will discuss with you the specific discharge arrangements. The hospital will provide medication and discharge letters to your chosen facility. This will aid in the planning for your care after you transfer from hospital.
- If your regular GP does not visit your chosen facility, the Facility Manager will assist you to arrange a new GP.
- You are encouraged, with the support of your family/carer, to make your new environment more comfortable by bringing along some personal belongings from home e.g. photos and mementos.

Respite with a view to Permanent Care

- Respite is known as to 'short term care' to give carers a break in their caring role. Residential respite refers to a short stay in an aged care home and may happen on a planned or emergency basis.
- You can also use residential respite as a way of finding out about the quality of care before deciding if the facility is a good place for permanent care. This is known as respite with a view to permanent care. This also gives the facility an opportunity to determine if they are able to meet your care needs.
- With a valid ACAT approval for respite care, you may be eligible to access residential respite care for up to 63 days each financial year. This can be extended in lots of 21 days if an ACAT assessment finds this necessary. The availability and conditions of respite varies from facility to facility. It is best to discuss the amount of respite that can be offered with your chosen facility.
- All respite residents will be required to pay a basic daily care fee. If you choose to enter respite at a facility approved for extra services, you may be required to pay any extra service costs to access these facilities.

Considerations when selecting a Residential Aged Care Facility

Before viewing a Residential Aged Care Facility, it might be useful consider what is important for yourself or your loved one.

- Do you feel comfortable when you first enter the facility?
- Is the facility fresh, clean and in good repair?
- What social activities are provided?
- What are the meal arrangements times, menus, visitors, special diets?
- Are residents well cared for? Are they well groomed? Are they dressed appropriately for time of day?
- What training do the care staff have, e.g. are there registered nurses, enrolled nurses, assistants in nursing?
- How many staff provide care overnight?
- What arrangements are there to ensure privacy for residents?
- What furnishings and personal items can you bring and what is supplied?
- How can family and friends be involved in your care?
- Can the facility meet the resident's medical and special needs, including language and culture, religious observances, pets, access to medical visits?

You can find a list of facilities in the St George and Sutherland Shire areas from page 12. For a more comprehensive overview of each facility and links to their website, or facilities from out of area, you can visit: http://www.myagedcare.gov.au/considering-aged-care-home/finding-aged-care-home

The Costs of Moving into Residential Aged Care

All residents are required to pay a basic daily care fee. Additional fees may be charged based on your individual income and assets.

The Australian government regulates aged care fees and charges. If you are entering permanent care, you will need to complete an Income and Assets form as soon as possible, as this will determine your maximum fees for care. This can be provided by the ward Social Worker or found online:

http://www.humanservices.gov.au/agedcare

Information about the cost of entering residential aged care can be found on myagedcare.gov.au and Centrelink 132 300

Adjusting to a new beginning

Moving into residential aged care can signify a major change in lifestyle. It is important to give yourself time to adjust to this new change.

This may have an impact on you and/or your partner/family. You may have come into hospital expecting to return home but find that it is no longer possible. Or you may have been caring for your partner or relative but now their care needs have increased. If you are finding the transition to residential aged care is difficult for any reason, you can talk to your care manager at the facility.

If you have any compliments or concerns about the residential aged care facility where you are staying, you can share these directly with the manager of that facility. However, if you have concerns that cannot be resolved directly with the facility you can contact the Aged Care Complaints Scheme on 1800 550 552.

Who to notify after you move

Once you move you will need to let the following organisations know your change of your details:

- Centrelink
- Department of Veterans' Affairs
- Bank and other financial institutions
- Community service programs
- Electoral Office
- Australian Taxation Office
- Solicitor/Public Trustee/Accountant/Executor of Will
- Medicare
- Private Health Fund
